Level II Program

A two day course for cattle producers

This two-day course is aimed at those producers who have had beef cattle for over five years and are looking to take the next steps in their level of management. The course will cover a variety of topics and go more in depth with some of the basics covered in earlier courses. This course will have both hands-on and classroom portions.

Requirements: Recent soil sample from your farm and completion of the Introductory level self-assessment (provided during registration).

Cost: $100. Lunch and course materials provided. Space is limited so register early!
